On the other hand, the results of the present study indicate that the effect of the lutein supplement on the visual performance of children is not as strong as that of the beta-carotene supplement. This may be due to the fact that the amount of lutein ( $10 \text{ mg day}^{-1}$ ) used in the present study was lower than that used in the study by Wang et al. ( $20 \text{ mg day}^{-1}$ ). The amount of beta-carotene ( $15 \text{ mg day}^{-1}$ ) used in the present study was also lower than that used in the study by Wang et al. ( $25 \text{ mg day}^{-1}$ ).

the first time in the history of the country, and the second at approximately the same time, the former was followed by a second, which is reported to have been more violent than the first. The violence of the first was such that it was impossible to prevent the early morning traffic from being interrupted for a long time, and the second was so violent that it was impossible to prevent the early morning traffic from being interrupted for a long time.
The violence of the first was such that it was impossible to prevent the early morning traffic from being interrupted for a long time, and the second was so violent that it was impossible to prevent the early morning traffic from being interrupted for a long time.

On January 11th 1977 the personnel board of the League of Red Cross Societies, New York, appointed a committee to work toward the establishment of a permanent world council of national societies of the Red Cross and Red Crescent. This committee met at Geneva on 12-13 January 1977.

The permanent committee, which consisted of representatives from 11 national societies, was elected to conduct studies and negotiations in order to establish a world council of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies. It was also authorized to submit a report to the League on 1 April 1978. The League Board accepted the recommendations of the committee and agreed to support the proposed world council of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies.

World Council of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies
The World Council of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies is a non-governmental organization of national societies of the Red Cross and Red Crescent.
